

Single stand up bench made of steel and wood.

It is an element of small architecture serving the need to "sit down" and have a short rest in places where there is not enough space to place a classic bench. Stand up benches are dedicated to various groups of people, including those whom have trouble getting up and down from low seats.

MATERIALS

